

The Best Wines to Buy This Holiday Season

By Jonah Flicker on October 12, 2020

There are some truly outstanding new vintages from winemakers around the world this year, from historic champagne houses to esteemed Napa wineries to biodynamic French producers, and everything in between. Whether you're looking for a gift or the perfect wine to pair with your holiday meal, there's a chardonnay, cabernet sauvignon, sparkling rose, or Champagne for you.

We put together this list of some of the best wines available right now for the upcoming holiday season.

2013 Dolce Napa Valley Late Harvest

Far Niente is known for its cabernet sauvignon and chardonnay, but its Dolce winery is devoted to producing one single late harvest wine. This type of wine is made from grapes picked a month or two after regular harvest, concentrating flavors and sweetness. The 2013 vintage is bursting with orange and caramel notes, along with gentle spice flavors and a soft minerality.

To buy: $85, wine.com